Immigration under Trump 2.0---- Are you ready?

Snell & Wilmer partner Rebecca Winterscheidt will be hosting a free one-hour webinar discussing the dramatic immigration enforcement changes under the new Trump Administration. While no business is immune, the construction trades, manufacturing, food processing, hospitality, and agriculture are obvious targets for increased I-9 audits and unannounced worksite raids. There are proactive steps that your company can take to be prepared for this increased scrutiny. Your company and your employees need to know how to respond and what rights they have when confronted by state or federal officers.

Rebecca is a graduate of the University of Kansas School of Law and has been practicing employment and immigration law for over 40 years. She is a past co-chair of the firm's employment section and has been the leader of the firm's immigration practice group since 1986. In the immigration area she represents employers across the country in both worksite enforcement matters and processing employment related non-immigrant and immigrant visas. Rebecca has been instrumental in creating her firm's immigration response team that provides guidance to employers faced with workplace raids, I-9 audits and other situations involving federal immigration agents. She is a frequent speaker on immigration topics at both the local and national level.
